

MEIGHEN FOR UNIFICATION OF RAILWAYS

Tory Leader in Senate Repudiates Resolution Passed by Party

By THOMAS WATLING

OTTAWA, March 8.—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen is for unification of the C.N.R. and C.P.R. whether the Conservative party likes it or not. In the senate last night Senator Meighen repudiated the resolution passed by the Conservative convention against unification.

He made it clear that he is not in accord with the present leader of the Conservative party who is opposed to unification.

Senator Meighen wears no party's collar—when it comes to the railway question.

High indignation poured from his senatorial lips because Senator Dandurand, gentleman leader of the upper house, presumed that the national decision was against unification.

The Liberal party, Senator Dandurand pointed out, is for unification; the Conservative party had rejected it.

The Liberal prime minister had refused to consider it; the opposition leader, Dr. Dandurand, had declared himself against it.

Senator Dandurand therefore took it for granted that the Conservative party was in the majority in the senate.

Senator Meighen, high priest of unification, moved in the senate that the special committee of last session resume its study.

Senator Dandurand, however, when he talked of the utility of dealing with unification, Senator Meighen unimpaired his oratory and denounced any attempt to curb the senate.

The committee will be appointed and will be given carte blanche to study any phase of the railway question.

Senator Meighen will see to it that the unification phase is not left out.

250,000 SEEK ADMISSION TO POPE CROWNING

VATICAN CITY, March 8.—Vatican officials said today that more than 250,000 persons are seeking admission tickets to the coronation of Pope Pius XII on Sunday.

One source said that the tickets themselves were limited to three tickets each on account of the demand. Entrance estimated 100,000 persons would fill St. Peter's piazza, and 10,000 would be seated in the balcony of St. Peter's in order to accommodate as many as possible.

Pope Pius XII today received Raffaele Cardinal Rossi, secretary to the apostolic nuncio, who brought reports of an early conclave to fill vacancies in the college of cardinals.

General admissions at which new cardinals and other members of the public are admitted will be resumed next week.

U. S. TO START BUILDING TWO HUGE WARSHIPS

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A new bill that the United States Navy hopes to start without delay two record-size battleships of possibly 45,000 tons, came today from Admiral William Leahy.

The chief of American naval operations said "We probably will discuss this with the house of representatives appropriations committee" when hearings open the month after the navy's $100,000,000 budget for the next year.

Since Japan formally refused to agree to give Great Britain, United States and France any inkling of its intentions, Britain has announced plans to build two battleships of some 40,000 tons each.

The six battleships which the United States has started or ordered to build are the largest ever. They are 35,000 tons each, armed with nine 16-inch guns.

King Not To Act At Prorogement

TORONTO, March 8.—Provincial secretary Harry Nixon, chairman of the Ontario government committee on arranging plans for the visit of Their Majesties to Toronto May 25, announced last night the King will not be able to prorogue the Ontario legislature session. Federal officials rejected the suggestion, he said.

Charity To Get Estate Of $110,000

HALIFAX, March 8.—Halifax charitable institutions will receive approximately $110,000 from the estate of Mrs. J. D. Bird, buried today in the Queen's Hotel.

When John D. Bird, husband of Mrs. Bird, died in 1924, he stipulated that amount was to go to charities when his wife died.

Canadian Companies To Supply Royal Cars

OTTAWA, March 8.—Four convertible, seven, passenger motor cars for the use of the King and Queen during the royal tour are being supplied by three Canadian companies. The arrangement is that the cars are convertible and that whenever permits their majesties may ride in an open car can be seen more easily by persons gathered along the route of the procession.

They will be painted deep red, as are all royal motor cars in the United Kingdom. Transportation arrangements are being made so that there will always be two available at each place where a Royal procession will take place. The cars will be moved in advance to these cities probably on railway flat cars.

Something Has Happened

Mr. Duggan told the legislature the west has not benefited from the establishment of the Bank of Canada as a public-owned institution. Perhaps not, but perhaps it has. It will be noted that interest rates are down and loans are now obtainable. Before the Bank was created interest rates were prohibitive, and loans were obtainable only on a margin of security that was also prohibitive.

However it is to be explained, scarce and dear money has given place to plentiful and relatively cheap money. If the Bank did not bring this about, Government policy must have done it. And Government money policy is operated through the Bank and by its regulative control over credit.

No doubt the chartered banks could have caused "tight" money with a more liberal lending policy. But they didn't, and there was no prospect they would, until the Bank came into operation.

The Bank's resources were not employed as extensively as they might have been, but there is evidence that in the Peace River district of Alberta there has been employed in the right direction. If Mr. Duggan's idea is that the Bank might as well be abolished, or handed back to private ownership, he may as well forget it.

The Nation's Health

Hon. C. G. Power told parliament he did not think the people of Canada are ready to undertake a state medicine scheme at a cost of $250,000,000 a year. They are not, for financial reasons if no other.

But health insurance is gaining in popularity, apparently in all parts of the Dominion. Societies are multiplying which provide hospitalization and medical service for their members, while the provincial governments are steadily widening their health-insurance programs with no protest from the taxpayers because of the added revenue required.

One way or another, there is little doubt that the next generation will support a system under which every sick child will be assured the attention he or she requires. The Minister of national health proposes a conference of federal and provincial officials to study present movements in that direction, with a view to charting a plan under which these activities could be co-ordinated.

The suggestion should be welcome to the provincial authorities, who are struggling to make ends meet, as it will be to the public. It is not too early for such a conference to be called, though it may be deferred until the report of the Rowell Commission has clarified the responsibilities of the Dominion and the provinces in this as in other respects.

Too Large an Order

Instead of paying Dominion bonds out of revenue, and extending the debt by issuing new bonds when this cannot be done, Social Credit members of parliament propose that new money be issued and used to redeem the maturities. The idea is sound, but they are over-swinging it. It has been suggested that parliament should commit itself at once to the issue of $600,000,000 of new money.

The sum is too large, much too large. An issue of $100,000,000 could be made with no danger of hoarding the cost of living or putting Canadian money at any serious discount abroad. An issue of $200,000,000 might be possible with no adverse effects. But to proclaim the intention to issue three times that amount would be both unnecessary and unwise.

When all has been said, what is proposed is that parliament try an experiment in controlled "inflation" of the money supply. Parliament has had no experience along that line. If the traditional system of public finance is to be abandoned, as it eventually will be, the change should be made gradually, for no one can see with certainty all the disturbances that may follow and all the readjustments that may have to be made. The prudent course is to proceed with caution, but to proceed. A trial issue of a hundred millions, or even twice that amount, to meet maturing government debt during the coming year, would be safe. To go beyond that, in amount and in time, would be plunging.

If Time and Money Count

If Premier Pattullo takes note of what is going on in the prairie provinces—and he likely does—he will observe a quite widespread conviction here that the proper route for a highway to Alaska lies across the plains, and not through the mountains of British Columbia.

He may detect also widely diversified notions as to the proper route of the prairie corridor the highway should traverse. The prairies have in fact developed a rich variety of prospective routes for the Alaska highway. These correspond in number and location with the number and location of prairie centres of the large type, since each of these would like to be on the highway-to-be and can show reasons why it should be.

Just to keep the record straight, what is recalled here The Bulletin long ago suggested that the cheapest and quickest way to build a highway to Alaska would be to extend the highway system of Alberta north from the Peace River district. That claim still stands against rival contentions on behalf of other prairie centres, and also against the British Columbia plan. If the aim is to get the road built in the least time at the least cost, the Alberta route is by all odds preferable.

On the ground that he "saw it first," Premier Pattullo may claim priority for the British Columbia plan. If the idea is to construct a combined tourist and military highway, that province undoubtedly has a good case. But if time is important and cost a factor of major consideration, the place to start building the highway is in the Peace River district of Alberta there being already some 100 miles of Peace River to the international boundary.

Editorial Notes

General Michas displaced Casado's "fight to the death" council at Madrid, and proceeded to negotiate with Franco for terms of surrender. The commander-in-chief knows better than the garrison commander what prospect there would be to ward off the concentrated onslaught of Franco's cosmopolitan army.

Sales of Canadian-held securities abroad during January reached a total of more than $67,000,000. If this means that Canadian owners of foreign securities were liquidating abroad and bringing the capital home for investment, it is good news. It means Canadian governments and municipal councils were selling their bonds abroad, the news is not so good.

Mr. Garland says the proposal to bonus growers on the number of acres sown and not on the number of bushels threshed must be "based on the belief that the wheat industry must die." Most other critics say the bonus-per-acre is calculated to stimulate wheat production. Both arguments can't be right. But both may be wrong.

Last year 55 persons were killed in motor accidents on Alberta streets and highways. The year before the number was 56. In 1938 the fatalities were 72. Remembering that motor cars increase each year, there is evidence here that Albertans are making some progress toward safe and sane use of the streets and roads. And equally strong evidence that there are plenty of room for improvement.

U. S. army experts have found that the German "liquid air" bombs dropped on Barcelona did not contain liquid air at all, but a less murderous mixture of ammonium nitrate, charcoal and powdered aluminum. The information will be interesting to munitions engineers, but not particularly reassuring to the public. It is only moderately comforting to know that the latest pattern of wholesale killing is less lethally efficient than it was reported to be.

One reaction to the attempt on the part of Toronto and Montreal "big shot" to abolish the provinces and put Canada under a single government is the decision of Hon. Ernest Lapointe to fight in politics for the particular purpose of staying this thinly disguised Fascist movement. In the opinion of the veteran political observer, the McCullagh ramp is something that needs to be fought, and cannot safely be left to its own absurdities.

KEEPING COMPANY
Mildred poses in her household taking this morning to make a little money at the fortuitous visit of our daughter and her husband. Mildred has been radiant with happiness over the children's presence. It is not the fact we have cause to regret we have seen and the things we have done that impress her, but the fact of being together. Love's supreme reward is staying together.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Prizes are offered for all manner of contests, good, bad and indifferent. Hog-calling, horse-sock picking, dancing, marathons, even soap-opera playing has its championships and its rewards. Most useful and beneficial of all recent contests is one recently held by the Mother-in-Law Association of New Brunswick. It offered prizes of $50 in merchandise plus a round trip by plane to Montreal to experienced mothers-in-law for the best "five rules for being a successful mother-in-law." Though Nature debared me from ever becoming a successful mother-in-law, I've been studying the successful ones. Dorothy Day, repository of matrimonial and family problems, and Frout of Wisdom to the love-lorn and the matrimonially ship-wrecked, can't you think that civilization's greatest need is a code of ethics for mother-in-laws?

Unless people learn to live at peace with their kin, the whole effort of civilization becomes a jest.

One of the experienced ladies whose codes won the prizes awarded the contest as follows: "Be a pal. Be a good sport. Do not try to manage the children's home or life. Do not criticize your son-in-law or your daughter-in-law to your own child. Above all things, keep your own mouth shut. Mother-in-law."

KEEPING PLACE happens. The other experienced mother-in-law said: "Mother-in-law is a thing, but in other terms: 'Don't meddle into the young people's affairs. Avoid argument and controversy. Keep your own mouth shut, and your emotional balance. Don't let your heart overrule your head when a calm, sane influence is needed.'"

My own mother, with seven sons, achieved success as a mother-in-law by a more simple formula. She always took the side of the daughters-in-law when any complaint was lodged. But then she had spent the early years of her married life at a store as a clerk, and had seen her husband and could tell the story of any old backstabber of the City Square Club. Ship life for her was like tending bar to the "Girl of the Golden West" who was running a saloon. It was splendid training for a girl "because it gave you such an insight into human nature."

By one gesture the ladies of the Mother-in-Law Association showed their sense of humor and restraint. They met there a thousand strong. Any man who has ever addressed a convention of a thousand people knows how easy it is to stir them up into a rage of indignation by agitating a grievance. Well, a lady said:

DON'T GET SORE delegate rose and protested OVER THE JOKES against the use of "mother-in-law" jokes on the stage and the radio. She ended by moving a resolution calling upon entertainers in all fields "to refrain in the future from all jokes and sallies aimed at the mother-in-law."

Did the experienced mother-in-law fall for the bait? They did not. They laughed at the protesting delegate and voted down her resolution. Long live the Mother-in-Law Association!

Current Comment

Fewer Provinces?

The cost of government in Canada is compelling Canadians to give some thought to the problem of reducing costs, and various suggestions have been put forward. There is a pretty general admission that, with the present government, provincial government and federal government, we are over-governed. The question is, what can be done about it?

Premier Hepburn, back from a trip to Australia, where they have problems of over-governance, has given a good deal of thought to the problem of reducing costs. He has suggested that the three prairie provinces be united into one. Mr. Paul Martin, one of the rising young stars at Ottawa, would unite all the western provinces. Mr. Hepburn would have a Canada of five provinces, Mr. Martin of four.

There is really nothing very new about these suggestions. The proposals have been made on various occasions, and the Rowell Commission, its critics to the various provincial capitals, east and west, tried to sound public opinion on the question. It found a certain amount of approval in theory, and some regret that larger provinces and fewer of them had not been made in the beginning. It found no enthusiasm for a change now, and considerable doubt as to whether consolidation was practicable—Vancouver Province.

It Just Doesn't Happen

It is to be hoped that no well-informed citizen of British Columbia really credits these stories that Japanese have constructed secret oil tanks on the West Coast or cement gun emplacements at Kootenay. The kind of people who believe these stories are the kind of people who believe that the Japanese do not have any submarines in them. The Japanese do some curious and unexplained things, but they are not stupid enough to carry out what rumor says they have done.

Questions have been asked at Ottawa about "mysterious" timber deals by which Japanese have bought important holdings of timber. There is no mystery about it. Details of these timber purchases have been published in various newspapers and official statements of ownership are on file by Japanese, the same as if the owners were of Canadian nationality.

The thing is highly undesirable that Japanese should be allowed to own and cut timber in British Columbia and send the logs by ship to Japan to be processed by Japanese labor. The law that permits this sort of thing is wrong in our opinion. But there is no use in blaming the Japanese, so long as our regulations permit them to do what they are doing.

Some weeks ago a city newspaper published several columns of a fantastic yarn of a youth who had been kidnapped by a Japanese submarine destroyer operating in British Columbia coastal waters. It was interesting fiction, of course. The point is that the submarine was not there, and the youth was properly labelled as a product of a silly season; to be consumed, especially, with more than a grain of salt—Vancouver Star.

Calgary and the Lords

If it should turn out that Mr. Bennett is included in an early honors list, and thus get his passport into the House of Lords, it would be a good thing for the country. For the announcement recently has been made that Frederick George Mowbray Percival, eleventh Earl of Northampton, is to be made a peer of the realm.

This is not to suggest that Calgary will lord it over other western Canadian cities merely because that thriving Alberta community would have a lord in residence. The Earl of Northampton is a peer of the realm, and his presence in the House, but it is merely to emphasize the catholicity of taste which the British parliamentary system imposes as a means of determining the membership of the House of Lords.

It may be too much to expect, of course, that the former Prime Minister of Canada will catch on to the present situation of the House of Lords, but even if he should "make" a lower bracket, he would enter upon his duties with the knowledge that he is a peer of the realm, and that the House of Lords is a part of the government.

It is not to suggest that Mr. Bennett is a peer of the realm, but it is to suggest that the House of Lords is a part of the government, and that the House of Commons is a part of the government, and that the House of Lords is a part of the government, and that the House of Commons is a part of the government.

It is not to suggest that Mr. Bennett is a peer of the realm, but it is to suggest that the House of Lords is a part of the government, and that the House of Commons is a part of the government, and that the House of Lords is a part of the government, and that the House of Commons is a part of the government.

Must Create Credit

Editor, Bulletin: To recent editorial, appearing in The Edmonton Bulletin and copied by the Medicine Hat News, you complain that the Mackenzie King government is to use the public credit in terms of public need. You then suggest it is time to explain "what the government ought to do other than it is doing."

I am glad of the opportunity to do so. To begin with, I doubt if any body (and least of all the bankers) objects to the steps which the government has undertaken to date. We can agree that conditions would be pretty dire without them. But we must realize that these steps are expeditious. And not very good ones at all.

Public credit means the collection of credit in Canada. It is not real credit. It is only a paper credit. It is not the ability to produce goods and services. It is not the ability to produce goods and services. It is not the ability to produce goods and services.

GIULI'S KNITTED COAT

Design No. 417

Dear Readers: I have called this little knitted coat the "Princess Elizabeth" for it is modelled along the lines favored by a clever royal mother for her young daughter. It is tremendously pleasing for it will need no trips to the cleaners as a sweater. You will love its neat turned down collar and the cuff effects simulated by the seed-stitch trimmings. The body of the coat is in simple stocking stitch, and is buttoned from neck to waistline. Lovely light green shade would be charming for Spring; and if you are one of those mothers who look well ahead, you might make it in white for summer wear.

Pattern includes full instructions for knitting, together with material requirements for sizes 6, 8 and 10 years.

Send 15 cents in coin for this pattern to The Edmonton Bulletin, Newsworld Dept., Edmonton, Alberta.

The practice of wetting coal before putting it in the fire is based upon false ideas, and instead of saving heat, it actually wastes it, because the evaporation of the water from the fire takes up heat which would otherwise be available for heating purposes. Wet coal, being longer in a fire, and it takes more of it to produce the amount of heat desired, it makes a bad fire, and wastes the heat which the combustion produces.

According To Culbertson

In no other department of bridge is it necessary to use arithmetic more knowledge than in secret bidding. I refer particularly to match-point duplicate play. The potential point that the opponents will earn from a given contract must be compared, not approximately but precisely, with the probability to be incurred by a sacrifice bid. This is not always as simple a matter as it may appear, and I refer particularly to the case of a player who has been asked to sacrifice at a level against a five heart contract, although he has fully decided to sacrifice at seven clubs. This was the hand.

Match-point duplicate.

NORTH		SOUTH
♠ 7 5 3	♥ 10 9 8	♠ 10 9 8	♥ 10 9 8
♦ 10 9 8	♣ 10 9 8	♦ 10 9 8	♣ 10 9 8

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	1♥	2♠	2♥
3♠	3♥	4♠	4♥
5♠	5♥	6♠	6♥
7♠	7♥	8♠	8♥

North-South were using the Blackwood convention in which the four no trump bid announces nothing, but does ask partner how many aces he holds. Obviously, it did not work out very well in this hand because the slam was cold, but could not be safely reached with the information that was exchanged. However, our concern in this case is not with the North-South bidding. It is with the sound and imaginative action of East, in refusing to sacrifice at six clubs, even after his partner had entered the auction with a four club bid. East made the proposition in this way:

If the opponents were to stop at five hearts, even if they made it, they would earn only 400 points. It is virtually a certainty that there could be no defensive club trick, hence it would be far too optimistic to count on two outside tricks to defeat a slam contract. A six club sacrifice bid might be doubled, but there was at least an equal chance that the opponents would rattle into a slam. If they did East would be obliged to go to seven clubs, since he could not possibly double six hearts, nor even stand a double from his partner. Presumably, if West doubled a slam bid, he would be counting on two aces, and East knew that one of these was a four heart honor. Aside from the risk of pushing the opponents to a slam there was the other consideration that a six club bid, if permitted to stand, might go down three tricks instead of two. In that case, if five hearts were the limit of the opponents' hands, East would have made a very bad bargain, inasmuch as he would have paid a 500 point penalty to save only 400 points. In passing to five hearts, however, East made the mental reservation that if the opponents went to a slam he would save at the seven level. The mathematics of the proposition made this reasoning correct. If the opponents were to bid and make six hearts they would score 400 points and obviously East-West would not go down anything like that amount at seven clubs.

The actual outcome of five hearts gave North-South almost a bottom score on the board, since all four table six hearts was either bid or made, and one imaginative East player pushed their opponents into the lay-down slam.

RETURNED MEN GET 'BREAK' ON HIGHWAY WORK

Fallow Says Soldiers Are Given Preference Northern Road

With preference given to returned soldiers when positions in the public works department are being filled, 19 men are being employed on survey parties on the winter road to Great Slave Lake, the legislature was informed on Tuesday by Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works.

The minister gave the House the information at the opening of the sitting, which was occupied by the government, dealing with a number of questions asked by Liberal members.

Hon. D. B. Mullins, minister of agriculture, in answering a question by J. H. Tremblay, Liberal member, stated that George Mayes of Athabasca was in the temporary employ of the government and that for the next month would be No. 31, 1938, the salary paid him was $900.

Mr. Mullins informed J. A. Bowen, Liberal member, that inquiries had been made about the dismissal of C. H. Gifford, a field unit for the department of agriculture and satisfactory replies had been made. Mr. Gifford had been given two weeks' notice.

Questions by E. L. Gray, Liberal member, regarding road construction were dropped after Mr. Fallow said they could not be answered in the present form but that Mr. Gray could make inquiries at the department and any information he wished would be supplied.

Written returns will be made on questions by Mr. Bowen respecting re-employment and by Mr. Gray respecting the highway board and the federal-provincial youth training program.

GIVES DATA

Replying to a question by Dr. Morrish, Hon. E. C. Manning, provincial secretary, said A. H. Graden is the supervisor of co-operative associations and was a naturalized Canadian citizen. He was appointed in 1917 and had 15 years' experience in Denmark and Great Britain.

Mr. Christensen's duties included promotion of co-operatives. "No such advice was given," answered Mr. Manning in terms of "political" question as to whether Mr. Christensen had advised a choice factory at Coaldale to apply for a creamery licence when there were three creameries operating in Lettbridge, 10 miles from Coaldale.

A motion by Gerald O'Connor, Liberal, Edmonton, for a return showing payments in construction of secondary highways and district roads was dropped. Replies to motions for returns regarding expenditures under the Alberta Social Credit act and purchases of road machinery, drag lines, etc. were made later.

ALBERTA STONE TO BE USED IN EATON'S STORE

Continuing their policy of using domestic products wherever possible in the construction of their new store, the Eaton's store, the T. Eaton Company (Western) Limited will use an Alberta marble-known to the trade as Alberta Travertine Antiquem-in the decoration of the new structure. It was reported here Wednesday.

The marble, a golden colored decorative stone, will be used in preference to an Italian marble of the same type which it largely used for the same type of work. It was discovered about two years ago by E. J. Couch, Calgary contractor, 10 miles west of Cochrane near the Calgary-Huff highway.

This will be the first commercial use of the stone since its discovery. It will be used around escalators and on some of the show window floors.

The stone is a porous calcium carbonate believed to have been deposited by hot springs. Although the Cochrane quarry is the only known source of the stone in Canada, similar stone has been imported from Italy for years and has been very popular as a decorative stone. It has been approved as suitable for building and decorative purposes by the National Research Council of Canada and the United States Bureau of Mines.

English Version Of O Canada To Be Sung By Canuck Children

OTTAWA, March 8.—Canadian school children today were asked to sing the English version of O Canada during the visit of the King and Queen rather than any other version. The appeal was made by the inter-departmental committee in charge of details for the visit.

The tune was written by Felix Leveillé and the first lyrics in French, by Judge Adolphe Beaulieu of Quebec in 1880. Robert Stanley Weir, Montreal judge and poet, wrote the English version 20 years later in 1908.

First verse and chorus of the Weir version follow:

O Canada, our home and native land,
True patriot love in all thy sons command.

With glowing hearts we see thee stand,
The true north, strong and free,
We stand on guard to thee, O Canada.

O Canada, glorious and free,
O Canada, stand on guard for thee!

O Canada, we stand on guard for thee!

AID OFFERED IN SOLUTION OF JOBLESS

was small in comparison with many other investigations he said in citing some federal inquiries.

DEEP INQUIRIES

The relief committee's inquiries had been extensive, said Dr. Robinson. His work had been important because in 1937 the gross cost of relief in Alberta had been $3,612,638.88 and in 1938 the gross cost had been $5,119,751.51.

Dr. Robinson defended the cost camps which, he said, had been established as a temporary measure to take care of aged, single jobless men. The hospital at Obed, Calgary suburb, was taking care of sick inmates, he said, unable to take care of themselves.

Reviewing recommendations of the committee, Dr. Robinson said he felt rehabilitation was the only means of effectively reducing relief rolls. The old age pension age qualification should be lowered and a home construction program would be undertaken to provide better homes. Many jobless and industries would benefit from such a program, said Dr. Robinson.

WOULD HELP

Dr. Robinson also advocated a national cost policy for Canada which, he said, would contribute to solution of unemployment. An extended public works program would be beneficial, Dr. Robinson also endorsed establishment of the treasury branches through which are issued non-refundable credit vouchers.

W. N. Chant, independent Camrose, declared the government had squandered funds in foolish endeavor and that the establishment of treasury branches would prove a cost and a debt for the province. Already about $600,000 had been appropriated for treasury branches, he said.

Re-establishment of the treasury branches should not be approved at the start, said Mr. Chant, but instead it would be their finish that counted. They were ready lacking in many requirements, he added.

WOULD DO SERVICE

If the government would apply for a bank charter it would be doing a service, said Mr. Chant. Treasury branches were only an illusion and could not fulfill the functions of a bank.

If Social Credit could be established by the government, then, said Mr. Chant, why try to refund the monetary debt on an orthodox basis? Reduction of interest rates was in order, said Mr. Chant, said he disagreed with the method made by the government in cutting rates in half.

Mr. Chant declared it was the duty of the government to co-operate in investigating farm machinery prices so that farmers would be assured he was being charged fair price for equipment.
